The more it is used the earlier the wiring will fracture and break, for instance, daily use for shopping or letting a dog in and out. The main dealer solution to this car was a £ 600 fit of a new wiring loom. However, with a little patience there is a simple repair that costs about a £ 1. First, pull some loom through the gaitor from the C ...

I'd no more use a 5yr old 500 with its original hatch wiring than I'd use one with its original cambelt. I wouldn't bother inspecting it; if you have to go poking, prodding and unwrapping, the inspection itself could trigger a failure. This is my take on it too. I just need to set aside a day to do it with the half-expectation that I could come unstuck and need a few days. For the time being ...
